Huron Academic Endeavors Debuts Little Endeavors: an Infant Playgroup for Mom and Baby

By Kelly Oldford

February 3, 2025

Fort Gratiot, MI - Huron Academic Endeavors has extended their programming to the community's smallest learners - our babies! Little Endeavors launches for classes in March, and Huron Academic Endeavors is accepting registrations now.

Little Endeavors Infant Playgroup and Mommy Support is a weekly mom-and-baby class designed for weekly inspiration and weekly aspiration. Weekly inspiration will focus on mom, including sound and sensory mindfulness, music, inspirational quotes, movement and helpful articles. Moms will also leave class each week with a weekly aspiration.

The weekly aspiration focuses on baby. It includes story time, developmental movement, sensory play, music, crafts and more! The weekly aspiration is a small, attainable weekly goal that mom can work towards. When classes gather the following week, that weekly aspiration becomes part of mom's weekly inspiration. As that pattern continues, mom and baby will connect in deep ways! And mom will have the support and encouragement of a Little Endeavors sisterhood!

Little Endeavors classes are held in the kinetics lab of the Huron Academic Endeavors campus, designed for movement and play! And the class is taught by certified teacher and infant professional, Jordan DePasquale.

Classes begin on Monday, March 3 and continue every Monday morning. The first session offering will be 9:00-9:30 a.m. Classes will maintain intimate sizes of 7 moms and babies. As one session fills, more class days and times will be added!
